- 2.1. These provisions apply to all legal acts by and legal relations between the Auction House, the Seller, the Bidder, the Buyer or the Broker, which relate to an Auction, an Online Auction, Aftersale, or Private Sale carried out by the Auction House, including those concerning the Bidding and all Transactions, sales, brokerage, valuations, assessments, viewings, appraisals, cataloguing, safekeeping, and the storage.
- 2.2. The abovementioned legal relationship between the Auction House and the Buyer is usually characterised by the Buyer being represented by the Auction House, during which a direct agreement forms between the Seller and Buyer. The sole exception is when the Auction House indicates it holds partial or complete ownership of the Lot.
- 2.3. Visitors to the Auctions, Sellers, Bidders, and Buyers are notified of the applicability of the General Terms and Conditions by their publication on the Auction House's website or elsewhere, or by an announcement or the availability of a copy before the Auction. All participants to any Auction, Online Auction, Aftersale, Private Sale, or any related activity of the Auction House thereby acknowledge full acceptance of the applicability of these terms and conditions and the Auction House's Privacy Policy.
- 2.4. The Auction House reserves the right to amend its General Terms and Conditions from time to time without prior notice. The version that applies to the Auction at hand can be found on the Auction House's website, www.venduehuis.com, and can be consulted at the Auction venue before the Auction.
- 2.5. In the case of conflict between these General Terms and Conditions and specific conditions that have been declared applicable to any Auction, such as an Online Auction, a special Auction, or a Private Sale, the latter will prevail.

Article 3      Organisation of the Auction

- 3.1. The Auction House announces the day and time of the Auction.
- 3.2. The Auction is held at the Venduehuis der Notarissen at Nobelstraat 5 in The Hague or at any other venue to be determined by the Auction House or on the website, www.venduehuis.com.
- 3.3. The Auction House announces the Lots to be auctioned in the manner determined by the Auction House.
- 3.4. The Auction House decides on the type of Auction.

- 3.5. The Auction House reserves the right to exclude anyone from Bidding on a Lot and to block any Bidding accounts. The Auction House also reserves the right to require a deposit, bank guarantee, or other assurances from the Bidder as prerequisites for participation in the Auction.
- 3.6. The Auction House reserves the right to impose a bidding limit on anyone, restricting the Bidder's Bids to the amount determined by the Auction House. If the Bidder would like to raise their bidding limit, the auction house is permitted to request additional information regarding the Bidder's credit standing and/or require a deposit to be paid on the third-party bank account of the auction house, before the bidding limit can be raised.
- 3.7. The margin scheme applies to the Lots at Auction unless indicated otherwise. This means that no value-added tax is added to the Hammer Price and that no value-added tax is included on the invoice.

Article 4      Consignments

Under the Wet ter voorkoming van witwassen en financiering van terrorisme ['Money Laundering and Terrorist Financing (Prevention) Act'] (Wwft), the Auction House is required to determine and record their identity. As part of the process, and pursuant to the Wwft, the Auction House is entitled to screen its clients. The Auction House is indemnified against third-party claims resulting from the screening conducted by the Auction House in accordance with the Wwft.
- 4.4. The Seller declares that no prior deduction of value-added tax has been applied to the Consignment.
- 4.5. The Consignment Agreement stipulates, among other things:
  - a general description of the Consignment;
  - the Estimate;
  - the Insurance Value;
  - the Input Brokerage and Costs agreed upon;
  - any flaws;
  - the reserve price, if any;
  - any other agreements, such as an intended special or Online Auction.
- 4.6. The Auction House has the right to refuse all or part of a Consignment without stating reasons. Even after receipt of the Consignment, the Auction House is entitled to return all or part of the Consignment to the Seller and not to auction it, in which case the Seller is not liable for any Costs, and the Auction House is not liable for any damage caused by the Auction not taking place.

- 4.7. The Seller has the right to retrieve the Consignment up until the start of the Auction against payment of 30% of the lower Estimate plus all Costs incurred, with a minimum of €250. If the Seller does not accept the lower Estimate, they may have the Consignment re-valued, at their own expense, by three valuers certified in the relevant field or by valuers generally recognised in the relevant field, one of whom is to be appointed by the Auction House, one by the Seller and a third by the two previously appointed valuers. If the valuation of the input differs from the original valuation, the new value is applicable for the purposes of this Article.
- 4.8. The Auction House has the right to combine items consigned by one Seller and to auction these as a single Lot.
- 4.9. The Lots are auctioned in their present condition.
- 4.10. The Auction House has the right to sell a Lot at Auction below the reserve without the Seller's permission if the difference between the amount and the reserve agreed upon is at the expense of the Auction House.
- 4.11. If a Lot remains unsold during an Auction, the Auction House holds the right to sell that Lot in an Aftersale, which directly follows the Auction. The same conditions apply as the ones agreed upon when the Lot was consigned.
- 4.12. The Auction House is entitled to photograph or otherwise depict or have depicted all Consignments in any manner, both before, during, and after the Auction. The Seller is liable for the Costs. The Auctioneer retains the copyright to these images.
- 4.13. The Auction House is entitled to inform the Seller of any Bid placed before the Auction, which deviates disproportionally from the higher Estimate and is entitled, at the Seller's request, to sell the Lot for the amount of the Bid outside of the Auction in a Private Sale. The Auction House has the right to charge the Seller and the Buyer the applicable fees.

Article 5 Obligations and Warranties of the Seller

- 5.2. Sellers are not entitled to Bid on any Lot they have brought in without the permission of the Auction House.
- 5.3. The Seller guarantees that they are the legal owner of the Consignment or have the authority to legally dispose of the Consignment. The Seller indemnifies the Auction House against all claims by third parties for violating any rights pertaining to the Consignment, including intellectual property rights.
- 5.4. The Seller is obligated to inform the Auction House of all features, flaws, and suspected flaws of the Consignment when it is handed in. - 5.6. The Seller is liable to the Auction House for payment of the Input Brokerage plus Costs for the Auction or Private Sale. If a Lot is Bought-in because the Bidding has not reached the reserve price, the Seller is liable for the payment of the Input Brokerage on the reserve price.
- 5.7. If a Consignment has not been brought to auction for a period of six months for any reason other than being destined for a special Auction, the Consignment will be sent back to the Seller at their own risk and expense or will have to be collected by the Seller after a request to do so.
- 5.8. Upon the Auction House's written notification of the failure to sell a Consignment, the Seller must collect the Lot within fifteen working days of the date of the notification. If they fail to do so, they will be in default without prior notice.
- 5.9. With prejudice to Article 9.5, the Auction House has the right to charge storage costs as stated in Article 9.4 to the Seller who fails to collect the Consignment within the term provided in Article 5.8. Furthermore, in such a case, the Auction House has the right to reauction the Consignment with a reserve price of 50% of the original reserve, if a reserve price had been agreed upon, or at any price if no reserve had been agreed upon.
- 5.10. The Seller must pay the Auction House invoice immediately or within no more than five working days.

Article 6      Obligations of the Auction House

- 6.1. The Auction House handles all Consignments with due care.
- 6.2. The Auction House acts in the Seller's interest by selling a Lot at the highest possible price. Neither the Seller, nor the Bidder, nor the Buyer can derive any rights from remarks made by the Auction House regarding the state or the features of a Lot. Any images used by the Auction House are as accurate as possible, but neither the Seller, nor the Bidder, nor the Buyer can derive any rights from the images used. Ostensible mistakes in the description of a Lot are not binding for the Auction House, nor can the Auction House be held liable for any deviations in the colours of images.
- 6.3. Descriptions are provided by the Auction House and its staff to the best of their abilities.   - c. the order of the Lots to be auctioned.
- 6.5. The Auction House supplies the Buyer with a (digital) invoice. The invoice states the Sale Price and any Costs, including the value-added tax. It also lists any Droit de Suite royalties and other Costs.

6.6. If the Auction House has received the full sum owed by the Buyer, it undertakes to pay the Seller the Sale Price minus Costs after thirty days, with due observance of the period during which the Buyer can invoke their right to dissolve or rescind the agreement under Article 12, or the right of withdrawal under Article 16, with prejudice to the Auction House's reliance on set-off. If the Costs exceed the sum payable to the Seller, the Auction House will issue the Seller with a digital invoice for these Costs.

7.6. If a Lot is Bought-in during the Auction, the Auction House reserves the right to offer the Lot on the website of the Auction House immediately after the Auction for a price to be determined by the Auction House, taking into account the reserve price, or to privately sell the Lot after the Auction with due observance of the agreement with the Seller. The Transaction is concluded with due observance of the present General Terms and Conditions.

- 12.1.
